- CBD, formally known as cannabidiol, is an extract that is processed from industrial hemp. While it is related to the marijuana plant, it is a completely different species; CBD is non-psychoactive, which means it cannot get you high. CBD is a cannabinoid, and it interacts with our body's endocannabinoid system. Everyone produces cannabinoids, but most of us do not produce enough of them. Cannabinoids, including CBD, regulate our mood and overall wellness. Studies have suggested that CBD can help with a wide array of ailments, including anxiety, depression, autism, PTSD, arthritis and fibromyalgia. Our knowledgeable staff will assist customers in selecting the products that will best enhance their overall wellness.
- After the passage of the 2018 Farm Bill, it became legal to cultivate and process industrial hemp across the country. Under this new law, any industrial hemp with less than 0.3% THC is considered legal. Our store carries varieties of CBD that contain no THC, as well as varieties that contain up to the 0.3% of legally allowable THC. Our company works to be fully compliant with any and all regulations, and we are proud to exceed industry standards for testing and purity.
